

Alise Armour

Multi - Hyphenate

Writer | Actor | Producer

About Me

Originally from Tulsa, Oklahoma, Alise began her career in commercial acting, booking major brand campaigns such as Cadillac, Twitter, Facebook, and Disney. Since, she's made a name for herself both in front of and behind the camera, partnering with some of the most renowned studios and talent across the country.

Her first short film "USE" — which she wrote, starred in, and produced — awarded her with Shout! Factory's Genre Filmmaker of The Future Award. It also earned her a Grand Jury Honorable Mention Award, a nomination for "Best Actor in a Drama", as well as a multi-year development deal. The feature-length adaptation is currently in production.

When she's not developing her own work, Alise brings projects to life as the Executive Producer at Lunar Studios — the narrative division at Raw Media House — and also serves as the Los Angeles representative on the "Women's Weekend Film Challenge" development committee.

She is also a member of the Women in Film (WIF) and African American Women in Cinema (AAWIC) organizations.

Suggested Interview Topics

- Commercial acting business
- Making short films: pre-production, production, to post.
- Screenwriting; narrative stories, topics on women, and social thrillers.
- Life and Career Transitions
- Success' and Failures
- Mental Health

Suggested Interview Questions

- How do you get started in commercial acting?
- What advice would you give to others wanting to start making their own films
- How did you start building your film crew network?
- Why is your style of writing in film relevant right now?
- How has bipolar disorder helped inform your career?

Awards & Nominations

- Shout! Factory's Genre Filmmaker of the Future Award 2022
- Collaboration Filmmaker's Challenge: Best Actress Nomination

Social Media / Contact

Instagram: @alisearmour

email: alisearmour@gmail.com

Personal Website: www.alisearmour.com

Instagram: @usethefilm

Personal Website: www.usethefilm.com

USE feature film

Crowdfunding <https://seedandspark.com/fund/use>

'USE' Multi-Award Winning Short Film

